VEHICLE INSURANCE

This week, I made the following advancements in our webpage.

My team and I worked on the application's coding, and we were successful in producing a homepage.

I've written a code for a vehicle insurance claim in which we've incorporated all of the fundamental requirements, including making a background image and specifying its size, color, box-shadow, and border radius.

we also made a login page for users.The users to visit our application and to register.
